Question:

Hey! I'd really love to know: How can I attract more love into my life?

Your Reading:

1. You: Two of Wands - Upright
2. Current Challenge: Queen of Swords - Reversed
3. Advice: Knight of Cups - Upright

Message:

You're a person that holds great passion and determination within you. Right now you might be in a state of planning with your eyes are fixed on the horizon, wondering where exactly it might take you if you let it. Others around you are living their lives and seem to have success in being surrounded by love, or at the very least, they seem to have results. You are left wondering when it's your turn. You want to attract love and improve your situation and you might have a plan in mind for doing so that either you haven't taken action on yet, or are just starting to put into motion. Maybe you've had multiple ideas that you feel compelled to pursue, only to stop them once they've begun.

But something is holding you back from the love you seek, and the cards seem to indicate that your thoughts are presenting quite the challenge to you. Your mind carries great power -your power- but at the moment it seems to be hindering you instead of propelling you forward. This might feel discouraging but this reading doesn't highlight your challenges without giving you hope. This card in particular indicates that you have a sharp intellect and can accomplish much of what you set your mind too. Right now it's very important for you to pay attention to how your thoughts hold you back from love and true acceptance. You might have an inner monologue that tells you you are unworthy of love or even that love is threatening to you. When you believe this, opportunities for love may surround you but you won't be able to see them, or may even push them away. You may want to be loved, but not have experience in receiving it, or feel very uncomfortable when you do.

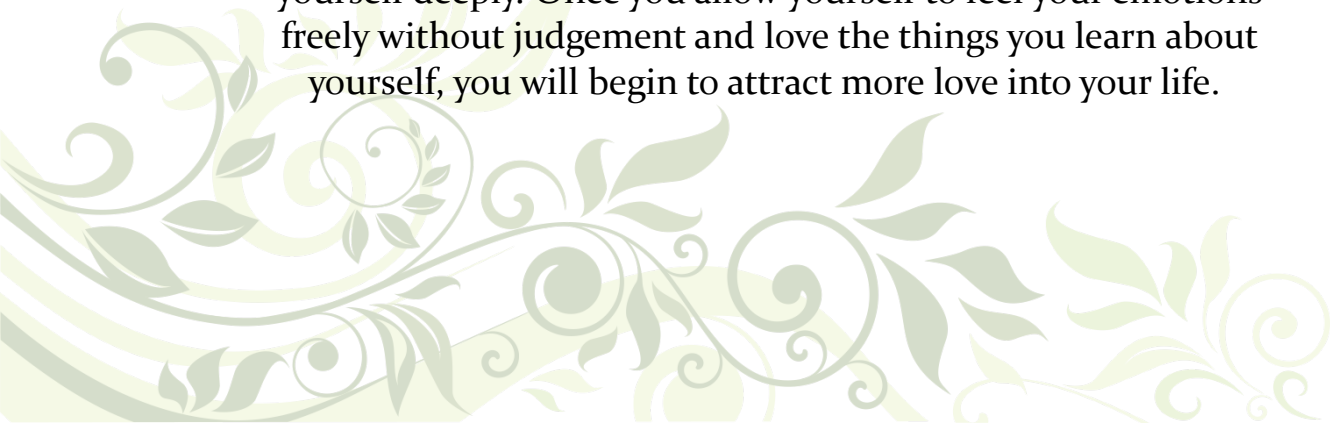

The advice the cards have for you is to practice feeling comfortable with your emotions. The best way to attract love is to love who you are and to believe you are worthy of that love. This can be quite the challenge, especially if you were or are currently in an environment that seeks to convince you that you are unlovable, flawed, or that you can only be loved if you reach some sort of ideal. The truth is that no one is an exception to love and everyone deserves to be loved simply because they exist. By existing, everyone brings a unique and beautiful energy to the world, so a good start to learning to love yourself is by learning more about yourself and celebrating all the things that make you you. This card also carries the message of learning to understand and listen to your subconscious. Don't intellectualize your feelings too much. Hidden in your reactions are messages that reveal to yourself who you truly are and how to get the things you desire. True, you can think through these feelings and get to the cause of them, but you need to feel them fully first and not view them as your enemy. Even if it might seem silly, repeat affirmations like, "I am loved," and "I am worthy of appreciation," to yourself daily. Affirmations are a powerful way of attracting the things you desire into your life.

Summary:

The cards indicate that you have a profound ability to attract love in your life. Right now, it's important to figure out the ways your mind works against you and use its power to learn to love yourself deeply. Once you allow yourself to feel your emotions freely without judgement and love the things you learn about yourself, you will begin to attract more love into your life.
